

I think the law should stay as it is. My sick and elderly father lives with me and during the day he is constanly bothered by these telemarketers. He takes alot of medicine and needs his rest and sometimes he doesn't sleep very well and the constant phone calls really upsets him. I find it an invasion of our privacy when they call. We didn't ask for them to call us and I feel we shouldn't have to be bother every single day of the week with these phone calls. So please keep the law the way it is
